Excerpt: . old claw outstretched for her acceptance, and plunged incontinently down a ride in the direction of the voice. In front of her stood a sombre ring of immense pine-trees, and in their shadow stood Garry and James Canavan, apparently in committee upon some small object that lay on the thick mat of moss and pine-needles. I heard the governor talking to you, said Garry with a grin of intelligence, and I thought you d sooner come and look at the rat that s just come out of this hole. Stinking Jemima s been in there for the last half hour after rabbits. She s my ferret, you know, a regular ripper, he went on in excited narration, and I expect she s got the muzzle off and is having a high old time. She s just bolted this brute. The brute in question was a young rat that lay panting on its side, unable to move, with blood streaming from its face. Oh! the creature! exclaimed Francie with compassionate disgust; what !! you do with it? IH take it home and try and tame it, replied Garry; it s quite young enough. Isn t it, Canavan? James Canavan, funereal in his black coat and rusty tall hat, was regarding the rat meditatively, and at the question he picked up Garry s stick and balanced it in his hand. Voracious animals that we hate, Cats, rats, and bats deserve their fate, he said pompously,...
